Bob,

Here's some background you need to know.

[illegible]

"Specifically, QS was asked to look at their schedules programs and determine if there are opportunities to merge schedules, rationalize offerings, and provide the products and services in a new more customer focused and efficient way. The context of the conversation is that FAS across the board can benefit from strengthening our approach to building and maintaining customer focused offerings. We dedicate considerable resources to legacy programs, operations, processes and applications that may not be the best answer for the customer any longer. In response to this management council tasking, we have implemented a national framework team to start addressing all the component parts. You all named (b) (5)(b) (5) as your representative on the framework team.

What kind of impact would this have on the small business and socioeconomic busyness?
